

Suzie Boss bio

*Suzie Boss is a writer and educational consultant who focuses on the power of teaching and learning to improve lives and transform communities. She is the author of Bringing Innovation to School: Empowering Students to Thrive in a Changing World and co-author of Reinventing Project-Based Learning and Thinking Through Project-Based Learning. She is a regular contributor to Edutopia and the Stanford Social Innovation Review, and a member of the Buck Institute for Education National Faculty.

Here are a few of her recent posts that might be of interest to you:

- Learning spaces for PBL: <http://www.edutopia.org/blog/thinking-through-project-based-learning-suzie-boss>
- Ambitious service-learning + global ed project: <http://www.edutopia.org/blog/pbl-projects-global-education-haiti-suzie-boss>
- Design thinking example: <http://www.edutopia.org/blog/design-thinking-opportunity-problem-solving-suzie-boss>
- A guide to PBL assessment on Edutopia. It's free to download once you've registered for the site: <http://www.edutopia.org/10-tips-assessment-project-based-learning-resource-guide>
- A series of posts from a teacher shifting to PBL. I love his reflections on what's hard and what's working. You can work backward from his most recent post:

<http://www.philipcummings.com/diving-into-project-based-learning-feedback-friends/>